Message From The President

Recently we have made some changes in management. These are not easy decisions to make. They are not based on who I am friends with, but based on who will do the best for the company.

Being a manager is more than just coming to work. These individuals have agreed to be on call 24 hours a day, in the event the schedule changes, they must adapt.

The role of management is a tough spot to be in. Each manager goes through a long period of training and learning all of our routines. They must answer to me when anything goes wrong.

While they may or may not have been with the company for long periods of time, they each came with some experience that we found valuable.

I ask that you respect each of them as if they were me. In the event an issue arises please let me know and I will help solve it.

If you are interested in a management position feel free to contact me and we can discuss what would be a good fit for all.

News From Human Resources

Rules, rules and more rules. It may seem like all we have are rules to follow. This is true, we have many rules in place to ensure that we all continue to have jobs.

Did you know that our clients have a 30 day out clause, at any point they can terminate services with us. We strive to ensure this does not happen by having all our rules and procedures.

We have been in business for over 20 years, and in that time we have learned many things.

First and foremost we you our employees are our greatest asset. You are the ones on the front line working hard, the face the client sees day.

Second, a bad employee can bring the company down fast. An issue that isn't addressed can fester with a client upsetting them more and more. To the point of leaving us.

Often an employee asks how they can help.

Simple if you see something that isn't right, report it. If an employee seems like they are intoxicated or high, report it. If an employee is not doing their job, report it.

When you stay silent, we don't find out about it until the client complains. If we can prevent that we can keep the client happy.

We strive to keep everyone employed, we just ask that you not stay silent when you see something that is wrong. We will be as discreet as possible when speaking with everyone.

Together we can grow and succeed in 2018.
